Interact-TV Unveils Multiroom Package for Easier Digital Media Distribution Throughout the Home

Westminster, CO., April 7, 2008 – Interact-TV™ (OTC: ITVI), the leading developer of Linux-based Home Entertainment Servers, today unveils the Telly Multiroom Package, a simple way to share video and audio between multiple rooms in the home. The basic package consists of a TeraTelly™ Media Server, winner of the 2006 Storage Visions Best Integrated Home Entertainment award, and a TellyVizion™ Playback Unit.

The basic Telly Multiroom Package lets consumers share media between two rooms. Consumers need only a television (HD or standard definition) and a home network. Each Telly has an Ethernet connection (RJ45) and optional wireless to connect to any home router or Ethernet switch. Then connect a Telly to the TV and Telly distributes all audio/video using the home network.

Telly Multiroom Package options include the ability to add up to two more rooms (four rooms total) and upgrade storage capacity to 3 Terabytes which equates to saving up to 600 DVDs or thousands of hours of recorded TV, music CDs and digital photos.

Starting from $2495 for a two-room package, Telly products deliver everything consumers expect from a true media server including complete PVR with pause live TV, comprehensive Video Library with integrated DVD server and cover art navigation, Music Library with integrated audio server and Lossless Audio Encoding, Photo Library, web surfing and more.

“The Telly Multiroom Package puts digital entertainment at the user’s fingertips, from any room (or every room) in the home,” said Ken Fuhrman, CEO of Interact-TV. “Not only can you access everything from any Telly, PC or Mac, you can even start watching a recorded program or saved DVD on one Telly and pick up where you left off on another Telly in another room. This multiroom solution frees the user from being tied to a single TV.”
