Interact-TV Wins Visionary Product Award from Storage Visions at CES 2006

TeraTelly awarded for Best Integrated Home Entertainment

Westminster, CO, January 6, 2006 – Interact-TV™ (OTC:ITVI), a leading developer of Linux-based home entertainment servers, today won the 2006 Storage Visions® Conference's prestigious Visionary Product Award in the Best Integrated Home Entertainment category for its TeraTelly™ Home Entertainment Server. TeraTelly was awarded for the most innovative use of data storage in the home environment.

The Storage Visions Conference Awards are presented to firms that advance the state of the art in storage technologies utilized in consumer electronics. A panel of industry experts served as judges who gave priority to the product's role in fulfilling the vision of a digitally-connected universe of products.

Interact-TV's TeraTelly is based on the 2005 Innovations Award Winning Telly Home Entertainment Server®. TeraTelly allows consumers to easily store, organize, playback and enjoy digital media in the networked home. TeraTelly servers are compact and quiet, designed for any room in the home, with Terabytes of digital media storage. TeraTelly's comprehensive entertainment management features include a Personal Video Recorder (PVR) and a digital Video Library which serves stored DVDs, recorded video, home videos, and Internet downloaded videos. Its Music Library and digital Photo Library store entire music and photo collections. Users access TeraTelly's digital media libraries directly from a TV connected to the TeraTelly unit and share content with networked TellyVizion Playback units, PCs and Macs.

"We are very excited to have been selected by the SVC for this honor," stated Ken Fuhrman, President and CEO of Interact-TV. "TeraTelly is a cutting edge product and winning this award is a clear indication of our leadership in the Home Entertainment Server market."
